LUXURY HOLIDAYS TO ICELAND

While Garlinda's photographs capture the raw natural beauty of the country, Iceland is also a playground for adventurous visitors thanks to its diverse and dramatic landscapes and the incredible ways in which to explore them. Here are some of the amazing tailor-made Icelandic experiences we've arranged recently...

- Trekking to the summit of the Snæfellsnesjökull. This glacial volcano played a central role in medieval Norse Sagas and Jules Verne's classic 'Journey to the Centre of the Earth' begins with a descent into the crater of the volcano itself. This region was also the birthplace of Leif Eiríksson, the first European to reach America, some 500 years before Columbus was born
- Diving in the crystal clear waters of the Silfra fissure, where the North American and Eurasian tectonic plates meet in the Thingvellir UNESCO World Heritage site. It's a bizarre feeling swimming between continents, and an up-close reminder of Iceland's geological turbulence
- Peering into the craters of Eyjafjallajökull (of 2010 eruption and flight chaos infamy) and Mýrdalsjökull volcanoes while walking along the Fimmvörðuháls Trail with a private guide
- Heli-skiing in some of the world's finest powder conditions (in spring), and fishing for huge salmon (in summer and autumn) on the Hölná River at Deplar Farm in the north
- Snowmobiling or Super Jeep touring on Langjökull, Iceland's second largest glacier
- Watching the colourful spectacle that is the Northern Lights from the comfort of an outdoor geothermal infinity pool (the swim-up bar serving drinks all adds to the ambience)
- Whale-watching boat trips to see these spectacular marine mammals, including sperm whales, orcas and humpback whales off the wild and woolly Westman Islands, which are also home to Europe's largest puffin colonies
